So called "ghost nets" can be delivered without any charges as long as it is pre-arranged with Flora Hamn KF.

ISPS charges

ISPS-vessels pay a charge of NOK 0,22 per gross ton per 24 hours (day and night).

ISPS-passenger vessels pay in additional charge of NOK 17,00 per passenger.

All vessels over 15 meters whom use the ISPS terminal are subject to the ISPS charge independent of whether or not the vessels is an ISSC vessel or not. Vessels that do not have an ISSC certificate are exempt from ISPS charges when call to port when the call is only for bunkering of fuel and bunkering personnel are present during the entire call, and the ISPS infrastructure is not otherwise used.

If a vessel as a consequence of the extra security level, or other requirements on board requires extra security measures during the harbour stay, the costs for these additional measures will be charged to the shipping company.

ISPS – other users

Transport security Contract

Fixed carriers, suppliers, users and other tenants for Flora Hamn KF ISPS facility can sign transport safety contracts (earlier known as "Safety Declaration from a fixed operator"). If there are any doubt that the operator does not fulfil the duties of transport insurance contracts, the operator is considered to be without a transport safety agreement.

All users who wish to have a transport safety agreement must apply to Flora Hamn KF by sending a request to hamn@flora.kommune.no. There is no charge to receive a transport safety contract.

The transport safety agreement is a requirement for issuing ISPS access cards and it exempts the operator from the requirement of 5% checking and control when entering the ISPS area at level 1.

Goods charge

Rules

Goods charge for inbound goods is for the consignee, goods charge for outbound goods is for the shipper.

For general goods vessels, the charge is collected from the forwarding agent. The manager of the port determines for each individual case what vessels are considered as a general cargo vessel, and what cargo is considered as general cargo. For such vessels, the forwarding agent shall send the port authority a written document each month. The document shall contain; the vessel, date of arrival, with associated charges and total sum with deductions for collection charge. Including an attached document from the companies accountant stating the total given make up the goods charge, in accordance with the rates given in this document, for the goods loaded from the vessels mentioned in the given timeframe. Goods charge shall be in its own account for each vessel in between bills with the port authority. The port authority has the possibility to conduct random tests to control and can demand that the goods/materials one finds necessary be presented.

For goods that arrive with other vessels (bulk cargoes) the goods charge shall be paid by the consignee invoiced from the port authority. Forwarding agent or broker, or if the vessel does not have such a representative – vessels driver shall as soon as possible after arrival send the port authority a written document over the goods, recipient and weight over each shipment.

Goods are only to be held at the area the port authority states, goods are to be removed if no other agreements have made with the port authority, goods that are place without the port administration approval, or are stored without approval, can be removed and stored in a different location, costs will be issued to the consignee or sender. If such goods are not collect after such a demand is made, the port authority can sell these items at an auction after a regular announcement. Goods that do not provide insurance for compensated costs or can cause issues or damage, can be sold by the port authority before the expiry of the deadline in the mentioned claim, or destroyed if one finds it necessary. If one finds it necessary the port authority can improve the goods packaging against reimbursement of expenses.

The port authority is not responsible for any goods stored at anytime either in warehouse, at the port, warehouses, quays, docks and on open storage site.

As soon as possible after the arrival of the good the forwarding agent shall notify the port authority about the following: the goods consignee address, weight, measurements, the vessels last loading day and the goods extradition day. The forwarding agent is responsible that no dutiable goods are extradited before charges to the port authority has been paid.
